The focus of the AcexHealth Investment program is to foster early stage (Pre-seed, Seed, Series-A) investment in innovative Andalusian health technology companies that are a part of the AcexHealth programs that can provide investors with attractive returns while making a positive social impact.

Investing in the healthcare sector can provide generous returns on investments, but it is also challenging as there are significant differences from other sectors in terms of evaluating the opportunity. The healthcare innovation sector is also vast, with multiple sectors including Biotech, Pharma, MedTech, Diagnostics and Digital Health. The sector is attractive from an investment perspective due to a number of factors such as: Aging societies; increasing incidence of many diseases, particularly chronic diseases; emerging diseases and pandemics/epidemics; not being subject to economic fluctuations like other sectors; large and growing rapidly.

Establishing an investor community specialized in Health is of crucial importance to foster early stage investment in Andalucía health technology companies. Many Angel investors avoid healthcare investing due to the unique aspects of evaluating investment opportunities. However, angel investors can overcome several limitations associated with angel investing in health technology by pooling resources and knowledge, as has been done in many communities around Spain, Europe and the US. AcexHealth's Investment Community will be created by creating an investment community involving regional, EU and international investors currently invested in the health technology sectors (Biotech, Pharma, MedTech, Diagnostics, Digital Health), or with interest in investing in health technology. The AcexHealth Investment program currently has a solid pool of investors active in the health sector who will be directly targeted to join the AcexHealth's Community. In addition, for novice investors in the sector, AcexHealth will provide opportunities to learn about investing in this sector through seminars and presentations from experienced health technology investors.

The main objective of this program is to identify investors (private equity funds, venture capital funds, high net worth individuals, corporate venture capitals, strategic investors from the sector and business angels) with the necessary knowledge and/or interest in investing companies that arise from AcexHealth programs (Accelerator and Scouting) with the purpose of adding value and professionalization and transforming them into solid and profitable companies that provide generous returns to investors.

Call for Investors:

AcexHealth is now being launched to identify and meet business angels and/or venture capital firms that could be interested in accessing the pipeline of opportunities coming out of the AcexHealth Accelerator and AcexHealth Scouting programs, and to introduce the high potential health technology projects in the pipeline that require early stage (Pre-seed, Seed, Series A) investment.

Join the AcexHealth Investment Community if you:

-  Are seeking generous risk appropriate returns
-  Are interested in investing in the health technology sectors
-  Have a professional background to share
-  Are determined to promote the development of innovative health technologies
-  Are interested in supporting health entrepreneurs
-  Want to drive and reinforce health entrepreneurs' role in the investment world
